

I have concerns over what is being proposed regarding the LPFM attempts to expand service. I am an avid listener of KLOVE -- a Christian radio station. There was a long period of time that such a service wasn't available where I live -- in upstate NY. I finally found the type of station that gives meaning to an everyday life -- and this is now being threatened. Due to the limitations in this area due to the terrain, we are unable to get any other radio station that would supply this same type of service -- we have enough trouble with cellphone reception and TV reception, that we are limited in what we can receive. I am asking that you be sure to study the overall effects on everyone of this type of change --- and see that some of us can't just switch to something comparable -- we may not have any other options.

Thank you
